BIOGRAPHY

Born and raised in the Sacramento area, Bryan has a passion for the community and for the technology industry, where he spent 10 years in various leadership, sales, and marketing roles. He has in-depth knowledge of the tech space, from high-growth start-ups to pre-IPO firms, and is focused on helping high performing technology companies minimize their overall cost of risk.

Bryan is a Technology Risk Advisor at Bender Insurance Solutions for the Commercial Lines team. He advises technology companies in California about cyber liability, claims management, and international regulatory requirements. There is extreme pressure to innovate in technology and companies need to be protected during specific insurance inflection points: explosive growth, signing a commercial lease, closing a round of funding, and signing a large client contract.

Switching from the technology to insurance industry was exciting yet challenging, and Bender has provided Bryan with incredible support and training throughout the transition. He loves the family atmosphere and his amazing colleagues that have guided him through the complexities of insurance.

Bryan lives in Carmichael with his wife, Sarah, and two sons, John and Cameron. He enjoys hiking, living room workouts, community service, reading, and making up ridiculous stories about dragons and dinosaurs for his boys.
