ABOUT JEFF

Jeff Grubbs is the Chief Financial Officer for the Alliance of Schools for Cooperative Insurance Programs (ASCIP), a distinguished authority providing comprehensive insurance coverage to over 150 schools and colleges throughout California. In this role, he expertly steers financial strategies and operations that enhance the safety and progress of educational institutions under ASCIP's umbrella.

A Certified Public Accountant, Jeff has built a robust 35-year career in the insurance and risk management industry. He began with a solid foundation from California State University, Sacramento, and further advanced with a Master of Science in Taxation. This education has equipped him with a deep understanding of tax laws, which is critical for his leadership.

Beyond his professional role, Jeff is actively involved in community engagement and financial leadership. He is a past president of Financial Executives International and currently serves as the Treasurer for the Museum of Science and Curiosity in Sacramento. He merges his financial skills with a passion for science education, reflecting his commitment to public service and community enrichment.
